NORRIS DESIGN EXPANDS TUCSON OFFICE WITH THREE NEW HIRES

Leading Landscape Architecture and Planning Firm Adds Staff to Support Recent Growth

TUCSON, AZ, September 13, 2007 — Norris Design, a leading planning and landscape architecture firm, today announced the addition of three new hires to its growing Tucson office. The company welcomes Hampton Uzzelle, Jennifer Bartlett and Jeff Rhody.

The following professionals have joined the Norris Design team:

- Hampton Uzzelle, landscape architect: Hampton joins the Tucson office as a landscape architect after many years as an instructor at an outdoor leadership school. He holds a master's degree in landscape architecture from the University of Arizona, a master's degree in geology from Boston University, and a bachelor's degree in geology from the University of the South in Tennessee, "Sewanee."
- Jennifer Bartlett, land planner: Jennifer brings expertise in project management and a strong interest in smart growth principles, aging in place and sustainable development. She recently received her master's degree in urban and regional planning from the University of Colorado and holds a bachelor's degree in political science and urban studies from Haverford College.
- Jeff Rhody, intern: Jeff joins Norris Design as an intern while pursuing his master's degree in landscape architecture at the University of Arizona. He completed his undergraduate studies at the University of Arizona in environmental economics.

"As the southern Arizona market matures, we are adding to our experienced team of professionals" said Norris Design Principal Stacey Weaks. "These new staff members bring a breadth of experience that enables us to continue to deliver on our commitment to develop balanced design and planning solutions."
